For seven months of 2023, the largest grain supplier to Brazil became Argentina, which exported 2 million tons worth $736.3 million.

Paraguay took second place – 886 thousand tons and $290 million.

At the same time, both Argentina and Paraguay in 2023 year, supplies to the country decreased by two and one and a half times respectively (compared to the same period 2022).

Uruguay, which took third place in the TOP-5 exporting countries grain to Brazil, shipping 544 thousand tons by $211 million, increased supplies by 1.9 times compared to 2022.

Russia from January to July 2023 shipped 380 thousand tons to Brazil grains worth $108.5 million, taking 4th place in the ranking of exporters.

During the same period in 2022 Brazil did not purchase grain from Russia, and in 2023 Russia exported to Brazil only wheat and meslin.

Since 2010, Brazil has imported grain from Russia in 2010, 2013, 2014 and 2019.

The largest grain supplies Russia conducted in 2010, total the volume of which amounted to $5.6 million, which speaks of an increase in grain supplies from Russia to Brazil 20 times.
